Headline:
Dry with long sunny spells. Cold.

Today:
Another bitterly cold but dry day with some long spells of sunshine, although rather more cloud expected towards the coast. Temperatures in places struggling to rise above freezing despite the freshening southeasterly breeze. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Tonight:
Dry with long clear spells this evening and at first overnight, with cloud increasing later. Widespread sub-zero temperatures, not as low as recent nights due to the southeasterly breeze. Minimum temperature -4 deg C (25 deg F).

Saturday:
Bright morning with sunny spells but cloud continuing to increase, bringing patchy light snow slowly eastwards through the afternoon. Feeling bitterly cold in the southeasterly breeze with coastal gales developing. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Mostly cloudy and windy Sunday with outbreaks of snow spreading east, turning to rain later. Monday and Tuesday look rather cloudy with occasional rain but milder and less windy.
